

'Chiswick Riverside'

Local History

Chiswick Riverside has a number of historic sites most of which were developed during the 20th century.

Cubbitt's Yacht Basin off Hartington Road was originally the ornamental lake for Grove House. During the First World War a canal and lock were constructed to build concrete barges and float them into the Thames. This area has now been renamed Chiswick Quay.

Chiswick Staithe was constructed in 1966 on land that was part of the famous osier beds.

Hartington Court was built in 1938 and replaced the fantastic red brick mansion named Grove End.

Situation

Located on the North shore of the river Thames between Chiswick & Kew Railway Bridge, East of Kew Railway Bridge South of Hartington Road and the Great Chertsey.

Points of interest

- Riverside walks
- Famous pubs & restaurants
- Sports & health clubs
- Extensive transport connections

General Opinion

Chiswick Riverside is regarded as an area with excellent transport connections using the road and rail network combined with mixed residential dwellings comprising family houses and modern riverside flat developments. Chiswick Riverside lends its name to an exclusive Health Centre and many other sports facilities are close by.
