

Location

'Grove Park'

Local History

The name originates from the large mansion with extensive grounds, known as Grove House, which was not demolished until 1928.

In 1867 plans were published to build a housing estate for prosperous middle class residents between the railway line and the river, promoting the attractions of the new railway station and the sporting facilities afforded by the Thames.

Apart from the Grove Park Hotel no buildings were erected on this new estate until 1871, and then it was developed on a much more piecemeal basis than envisaged in the original plan.

General Opinion

Considered as Chiswick's most family friendly area with generally larger plots for each house providing bigger gardens than most of Chiswick's other areas. Local shopping, sports clubs and Chiswick House & Grounds providing a blend of culture with open air relaxation.

Situation

Grove Park is located North of the A316, East of the Underground railway line, South of the A4/M4 and West of Hogarth Roundabout.
